

NEW YORK HORSEMEN.

CRAZE OF THE HORSE FANCERS
OF THE METROPOLIS.The Horse Show a Great Attraction—Horse Men and Women—Spectators a Four-in-Hand Coach—Statues Which Cost $50,000 to Build and $15 a Year to Maintain

New York, June 5, 1884.—For a fortnight past the metropolis has given itself up largely to racing, hunting, coaching and the horse show, apparently oblivious of the recent panic, and almost forgetful of the prevailing political excitement. While racing is universal and hunting has grown quite general in this region, coaching and horse shows are peculiar features of New York city life, unfamiliar to many in other cities and unknown to the great multitude in other parts of the country. They have some unique and interesting features which it may please such readers as do not know of them from observation to hear about in this form. I ought to premise by saying that these peculiarities are largely the result of the Anglo-mania from which our rich countrymen are living just now; but they are the more remarkable inasmuch as the many English imitations in which they are engaged are costing a great deal of money, are also useful in developing physical strength of the men and women engaging in them and in improving the standard of American horses. The variety of races doubtless impels many to this indulgence, but that may be forgiven in view of the fact that it is indirectly done by circulating their wealth, even though in a frivolous way. It costs a great deal of money to maintain large packs of hunting horses and hounds, coaches and horses, and to relax, numerous grooms and expensive stable hands to give exhibitions lasting a week at an actual cost of money, not including the expenditure of $20,000 or $25,000 in prizes, and it is to be assumed that there is something more in the passion which prompts this peculiar extravagance than the shallow vanity I have indicated.

The horse show just concluded is the second annual exhibition of the kind in this city or country; and though financially a failure, it has been otherwise a great success. The association which provides the exhibition does not care to make money; if by chance it should, it would give the profits away in extra prizes. This year the members will probably give $20,000. The members will "echo in" and cancel all debts so as to begin anew next year. This show is not unlike that which was to have been seen a country fair years ago; and yet very unlike, because it is a bigger and more elaborate and with greater variety of attractions. The horse show in which it is given is the largest ever devoted to such a purpose, and the seating capacity of the building is several thousand. Ten thousand persons could readily look on at one time at a display in a rink large enough to accommodate four-in-hand coaches in the line of parades, and plenty of space to drive safely at any gait. Most of the exhibitors are residents of this city and vicinity, but among the exhibits this year are a few from Kentucky and Virginia breeding farms, and many from foreign stables. The magnificent Norman stallion, Mercure, whose picture is herewith given, though owned here, was bred at

THE COACHING CLUB.

Coaching is comparatively new to New York though the recent parade was its fifth annual exhibition of the kind. Of course, four-in-hand coaches are to be seen every day in the streets, but on race days one is pretty certain to encounter five-in-hand coaches, the word "Co." is not painted at all; on others the letters "L. D." are made to look as much like C. and O. as possible. On other broughams the word "limited" is omitted, and the initials of the owners substituted. The trade-mark of the coachmen's caps never varies, and the word "limited" may appear full upon all of them, as the law of the state requires it to be done. Every genuine cheap carriage has a railing around the top for the conveyance of trunks; the broughams have none. Likewise, the cheap cars are neat, new and clean, and the animals are in good condition. The broughams in all respects, are the opposite.

Mother and Child.

From the Waycross, Ga., Headlight.
Last Friday evening, just before the remains of Mrs. Caswell were consigned to the grave, the coffin lid was removed, and an invitation given for those who desired to take a final glance at the sweet, pale face of the dead, to do so. The picture presented, was beyond the skill of any artist or painter, a friend informs us. Like the dead, wear on each side of the head body hair, while her hair had turned toward the tiny form of a little babe, whom, with that of her mother, had gone away together. Yet mother and child were sleeping so sweetly, and the face of the mother was near the little babe, as if to guard that for which she had given her life from danger.

Louisville Lawyers' Fees.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

"The biggest fee ever paid to a member of the Louisville bar, so far as I have ever heard," said a prominent lawyer yesterday, "was something over $1,000." J. Stewart was the lucky man, and up to that time considered a very ordinary fortune. He was counsel in a suit brought sometime in 1883. I do not remember which, to Cave Hill and New Broadway, the property of which I engaged Judge Roberton, and I believe, Henry Clegg, Jr. Then the suit, and after he had decided with him, he had to pay his fee to the court for his services, and the fee left for his wife. He is now in Washington, D. C.

Another bill was sent to Judges Harlan and Wood by Wm. Williams, Jr., in a suit against a consulting trust made by him to his father. The case was a difficult one, and the decision, which was in favor of the plaintiff, which resulted in the statute of limitations being run out, was not until the fall of 1883.

A big fee than either of these was once received by a Louisville lawyer, however. The client who was paid such a sum was Mr. Buckner, who was said to be a strong candidate for governor last year. He was counsel in a suit brought sometime in 1883. I do not remember which, to Cave Hill and New Broadway, the property of which I engaged Judge Roberton, and I believe, Henry Clegg, Jr. Then the suit, and after he had decided with him, he had to pay his fee to the court for his services, and the fee left for his wife. THE BLAINE CAMPAIGN.

ENTHUSIASM FOR THE TICKET IN THE NORTHWEST.

The New York Times Declares That it Will Not Support the Ticket. The Herald Calls for the Nomination of Tilden—Views of the Canvass—The Procession of Clubs.

FEW YORK, June 7.—The Times, republican, says editorially to-day that it will not support Mr. Blaine for the presidency. It will advise no man to vote for him.

The Herald says the republicans will be sorry before November for their fearful blunder in nominating Blaine, advises the democrats to nominate Blaine. Tilden or Cleveland to secure success.

The Herald says a great many republicans are opposed to Blaine on account of his record, but that those who imagine that because of such disfavour the country is now to witness a spiritless campaign and an easy triumph for the opposition, are in our judgment, very much in error. Blaine is a fervent and sensational politician, and will force the fight from the start. More over, a party in power is always hard to beat, and the republicans are the only party that ever existed outside of Mexico. The sun warms the democrats that it will be most ominous when he declared that he would go to England to win civil triumphs in fields which he had not even sown. We will watch with extreme solicitude the progress of the electoral campaign.

THE CONSTITUTION: ATLANTA, SUNDAY, JUNE 8, 1884.—TWELVE PAGES.

AFTER TILDEN, BAYARD.

HIS BOOM IN BETTER CONDITION THAN EVER BEFORE.

The Elements From Which He Has Hitherto Drawn His Support—Facts of Interest Concerning His Political Services—Some Very Favorable Probabilities Anticipated.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—[Special.]—Considering his character, his ability and his long service as a leader of his party, it is somewhat remarkable that Senator Bayard has never loomed as a formal presidential candidate in any democratic convention. He has long been the political idol of two classes. One: his personal friends whom he counts in every part of the country, and who have been won to an absolute advocacy of his claims by those social qualities which warm and enrich his nature. The other class of his advocates is composed of the fog elements of the party which are congenitally inclined to believe that the voter chooses the best man presented for his suffrage. These gentlemen, by the way, for whom Bayard is his main support, Mr. Bayard has figured in the list of presidential candidates for two years past, and in each case has been placed with which placed him among the leaders in the balloting. I do not know if this is his disqualification. When you look over the catalogue of the men who have been nominated for president and find how many great and princely men have died broken hearted because they could not be chosen, you will see that the world is hardly likely to choose the white house register as a record of the "choice and master spirits" of their time. Mr. Bayard is quite a good citizen, but so is every body who knows him doubts that he would make a good, capable chief magistrate. Of his qualifications, ability and experience, the public has been told all that is necessary. The prizes in the will be as follows:

GEORGIA Gossip.

SHORT TALKS WITH THE SCRIBES
OF THE COUNTRY PRESS.A DIFFICULTY IN LINCOLN—FIRE IN THOMASVILLE—
FIGHT ON THE PUBLIC ROAD NEAR COLUMBUS—
SUICIDE OF A WOMAN NEAR DANIA—GOLDEN
DAGGER WEDDING IN ANDERSONVILLE.

While young Mr. Broadmax, son of Rev. J. E. Broadmax, was coming to Columbus on a wagon loaded with lumber, he met two negroes a wagon about three miles from town. The negroes refused to give any part of the road, and finally got off their wagon and made an attack on Mr. Broadmax, one of them striking him on the head with a rock. While the fight was progressing, and friend of Mr. Broadmax came to his assistance, and they clashed into the negroes with their knives, making it so warm for the colored gents that they withdrew from the conflict. The negroes were from Marion county.

Mr. L. W. Marsh and lady and Miss Agnes Colquitt, daughter of Senator Colquitt, will accompany the excursion party which leaves Rome for Black Creek next Tuesday.

The Berrien County Committee deplored the death of W. H. Jenkins, Sr., at his home in Irwin county, Georgia, May 21, 1884. The deceased was upwards of seventy years of age, and was one of the most prominent men in the county. He was known and respected for his integrity and prudence of character. Hon. Wiley Whitley is the oldest of his sons.

Mr. Isaac Keeney's mule, in Carroll county, died on the 1st inst., aged forty years, six months and sixteen days. He worked him thirty-three years and turned him out to rest.

Mrs. Mary Long, near Banning, a widow, living with her widowed daughter, committed suicide on Monday, May 26, by taking two vials of laudanum. She lingered until Wednesday night and died. She had procured the laudanum Saturday at Hutchison's store and kept it concealed. Her daughter left her in ordinary health at noon. She found her in a stupor when she returned at evening. The cause of the act is not known. She had divided her money among her three grandchildren.

General Tomm's will attend the district meeting in Harmony Grove as a delegate from his church.

Alfred Honey, a negro, attempted an outrage upon the person of a whiteable woman a few miles below Cotton Hill, Randolph county, the latter part of last week. He was a stout fellow, but her cries brought his assistance, and the scoundrel ran away as he saw two men approaching. A reward will be paid by the citizens of the community for his apprehension.

Thomasville Enterprise.—Last Friday afternoon about three o'clock a fire was sounded, and considerable excitement was created thereby. It was soon discovered that the kitchen at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cushing was burning, and for a while it looked as if the entire residence would be enveloped by the flames. The fire company started immediately for the scene of the trouble, but the fire was extinguished by but few outside of the children of the aged couple. Their long, half century of wedded life had been a source of happiness to all, and now that they have the pleasure reflection, that it has been so passed that they can claim all their fellow citizens' hearts. While this may see no other of their children living yet there are many friends wish for the good people many returns of the anniversary of their bridal day.

Mr. Elbert Ataway, who was stabbed by a negro last Sunday week, died from his wound in Burke county. From the facts it is an undoubted case of murder, and the officers of the law should exert every effort to bring the murderer to justice.

Anderson Herald.—That rare event, a golden wedding, was quietly celebrated on the 14th of June at the residence of our venerable and respected country man, Mr. James F. Norton, located in Coweta. The anniversary was a quiet one, but the anniversary intended by but few outside of the children of the aged couple. Their long, half century of wedded life had been a source of happiness to all, and now that they have the pleasure reflection, that it has been so passed that they can claim all their fellow citizens' hearts. While this may see no other of their children living yet there are many friends wish for the good people many returns of the anniversary of their bridal day.

A difficulty occurred in Lincolnton last Saturday between Mr. D. C. Colley, editor Lincolnton News, and Mr. Tarver. The following statement was given by the editor of that paper.

The trouble grew out of a case that had been in the courts for several years, which had already been settled, and was made to turn the home of Mr. McDaniel's in Lincoln county. Much feeling had been stirred up on both sides over this case. Last Saturday, so we learn, Mr. Tarver approached Mr. Colley with a whip with the avowed purpose of using it. Mr. Colley had been apprised of Mr. Tarver's intentions. When the two met, Mr. Tarver told Mr. Colley he knew he was armed, and that if he would lay aside his pistol he would whip him. In pulling out his pistol, which was cocked, to hand it to bystander, Mr. Colley endeavored to let the hammer down when it fired, inflicting a very slight wound in the flesh of his hand. After giving up his pistol Mr. Colley struck Mr. Tarver and knocked him down. One blow was passed.

A pocketbook containing one goober hull was found by a boy in Coweta a few days since. The Herald says the property will be restored to the owner whenever a full description of the contents is given.

Albany News.—About ten days or two weeks ago, Mr. Will B. Dozier had a gold watch chain stolen from his room. He had an idea who the thief was, and concluded that, instead of making a fuss about it, he would wait and see what would happen. In due course of time he found the missing watch chain attached to an old watch that had been left in the family being complained, yet looked remarkably well. The idea came to go to her parents and wait upon them as they were dead. She grew worse after leaving and in a few days died. The daughters hearing of her death made two beautiful wreaths and a cross to place on her coffin and sent to the church where she was buried. The next morning the family were gathered around the tree where the tree was. The fire in the oak was still burning, and the smoke was still rising, but entirely out, and by some means had ignited the tree and burnt it up entirely, and wasted all of the honey.

THE CONSTITUTION: ATLANTA, SUNDAY, JUNE 8, 1884.--TWELVE PAGES.

THE CONSTITUTION.

PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

THE DAILY CONSTITUTION is published every day, except Monday, and is delivered by carriers in the city, or mailed postage free at $1 per month $2.50 for three months, or $10 per year.

THE CONSTITUTION is for sale on all trains leading out of Atlanta, and at newsstands in the principal southern cities.

ADVERTISING RATES depend on the paper, and will be furnished on application.

CORRESPONDENCE containing important news solicited from all parts of the country.

ADDRESS ALL LETTERS AND TELEGRAMS, AND MAKE ALL DRAFTS OR CHECKS PAYABLE TO THE CONSTITUTION,

Atlanta, Georgia.

ATLANTA, JUNE 8, 1884.

INDICATIONS for the South Atlantic states to-day, local showers, partly cloudy weather, winds generally from east to south, slight changes in temperature.

The great walking match is over and Macon comes into possession of all the prizes. The Constitution has all along claimed that the "fairy legs" of Macon could do more than the Telegraph and Messenger gave them credit for.

JAMES WATSON WEBB, the veteran editor of New York, died yesterday. His services belong to an era which is now considered ancient history in America, when personal journalism was in vogue. He was a man of great talents and varied resources.

It has leaked out that a commission of five Spanish nobles has been sent to Cuba to inquire into the condition of things on that island. One of the questions upon which has said they are commissioned to report is what is the maximum price for which Cuba could be sold to the United States.

DEMOCRATIC PROSPECTS AND CHANCES.

In another place in THE CONSTITUTION of to-day we have briefly glanced at the relations which the nomination of Mr. Blaine presents to the prospects and chances of the democratic party. To the casual spectator the special enthusiasm which has manifested itself in behalf of Blaine in most of the republican conventions since the war seems to represent a popularity overwhelming enough to sweep the country whenever an opportunity offered. Such an opportunity offers now, but we think the results will show that this enthusiasm which has budded itself in behalf of Mr. Blaine will be found to have no sort of basis in the sober second thought of those who make presidents. It certainly has no basis in anything Mr. Blaine has accomplished or that he has given promise of accomplishing: it has no basis in his record as a public man, which is far from commanding itself to the approval of those who are accustomed to draw a well defined line between right and wrong, between actions that are upright and conduct that is loose.

We would not be understood as belittling

Mr. Blaine's popularity or as underestimating his strength. He is as popular a candidate as his party could have chosen, and as strong as any whose names were brought before the convention. So far as his record is concerned it is the average republican record. By so much as it is worse than that of any other prominent republican politician, by just that much does he more thoroughly represent the corrupt party which has selected him as its candidate. Mr. Blaine is not only strong and popular but he is one of the most adroit politicians of the age, brilliant and aggressive as a campaigner, ingenious, versatile and shifty as to methods, and unscrupulous as to the means employed.

So far from belittling or underestimating his strength and popularity, it is our deliberate opinion that of all the men who were candidates for the republican nomination he is the one whom the democrats will have the most difficulty in defeating; but for all that we believe he will be defeated. In the first place neither his popularity nor his methods will avail in the south or in the democratic states of the north. The states that are democratic to-day will be democratic on the day of election. The "personal magnetism" of Mr. Blaine will avail nothing with those who desire to see the government purified in all its branches and who are anxious to inaugurate genuine administrative reform. The enthusiasm, the horn-blowing and the hurrahing will vanish when they are brought face to face with the sober second thought of the people.

In the second place, the record of Mr. Blaine is quite as unsavory as his party friends have made it out to be. The republicans who have been instrumental in publishing and advertising the facts are not at all mistaken as to the effect which such a record likely to have on the honest voters of the country. It is a record that does not at all commend Mr. Blaine to the support of the conservative classes, the business interests and the political magazinists and critics who indirectly do a great deal to mould public opinion.

These reasons may seem to be vague and attenuated at first glance, but a little reflection will show that they represent the most substantial contingencies. It has been demonstrated in this great American republic on various occasions that popularity is not necessarily strength. To say that Mr. Blaine is popular is not to say that he will sweep the country. The very qualities that add to Mr. Blaine's popularity with certain classes will take away from his strength with other and more substantial classes. The point we desire to make is this: that Mr. Blaine, with all his popularity, with all the enthusiasm he is capable of arousing, will poll no more votes than any republican whose name was mentioned at Chicago, provided only that the democrats make no blunder when their nominating convention assembles.

For, after taking into consideration all the contingencies, it must be borne in mind that, so far as the decaying republican party is concerned, the nomination of Mr. Blaine is the best it could have made, and it will require all that the democrats can do to bring about his defeat. Recognizing the nature and extent of his popularity, within the limitations which we mentioned, we are forced to say programme to accommodate the capering and vaporizing propensities of certain democratic cranks who assume to lead the party—and who have led it, time and again, from the emergencies of hope to the certainty of defeat.

Conceding, as it must be conceded, that Mr. Blaine's popularity will not enable him to carry a single southern state a brief review of the situation will show that in no single state that the democrats had hoped to carry is his strength so concentrated as to leave us hopeless. With Mr. Tilden have every hope of winning a victory at the polls. Even if Mr. Blaine's popularity were as important as it is generally supposed to be he would have not the slightest chance of carrying New York as against Mr. Tilden. Many of Mr. Conkling's followers and a large contingent of republican independents, who are not as insincere in their professions as those who contribute to the magazines and evening papers, would vote for Mr. Tilden in preference to Mr. Blaine. We are free to say, however, that if Mr. Tilden will not accept the nomination which will be tendered him, and which ought to be made in the face of any letter he may send to the convention, we are not at all sure of the result. Our fear is that the whisky ring and the tariff cranks are endeavoring to draw a letter of declination from Mr. Tilden. Should they succeed in doing so it is not impossible that Mr. Blaine will be the next occupant of the white house.

Should he be elected we believe his administration will be a liberal one. He is the ablest and most experienced public man to be found in the republican party, and if the country is to have another four years of republicanism, we believe Mr. Blaine will give more general satisfaction than that of any other republican. He will at least fly the American flag over the white house and the state house, and there will be some consolation in that. We believe, however, it will be better for the country to defeat Mr. Blaine, and Mr. Tilden is the man to defeat him.

AMENDING THE CONSTITUTION.

We present elsewhere, from the pen of Judge William Reese, of Wilkes county, a carefully-written letter on the subject of amending the present constitution. That the necessity for such amendment exists and is a crying one there can be no doubt on the part of those who have watched the clumsy and costly operations of the state legislature under its operations. Judge Reese points out these in detail, and his conclusions are those of a wise and experienced public man. There are a great many well-meaning men who have objections to the calling of a constitutional convention, but these objections are neither conservative nor economical. The people may be trusted to reform and amend their organic law. The intention of those who framed the legislative provisions of the present constitution were all in the direction of strict economy, but the result adds not only to the cost but to the clumsiness of legislation. It was the intention to make the sessions of the legislature biennial, and the practical workings of the constitution have made the sessions almost perennial. All the machinery of the general assembly has been made cumbersome and costly to a degree that is almost incredible, and there is no remedy for this condition of things except in the amendment of the constitution. We ask for Judge Reese's letter the careful attention of our readers. His views are entitled to consideration.

THE REPUBLICAN TANGLE.

In nominating Mr. Blaine as their candidate for president, there can be no doubt that the republicans have deposited their liveliest and most tantalizing problem in the front yard of the "public." It is a problem that presents to the ordinary mind—to the mind acquainted with the development and progress of the fierce faction fights that have been going on in the republican party during the past four years—it is a problem that presents to such a mind, the possibilities of the most remarkable campaign the country has seen in many a day. The truth is, the nomination of Mr. Blaine, overwhelming and tearing to pieces the most carefully devised schemes of his opponents, is in the nature of a surprise to the sagacious and cautious republicans—leaders—the originators and managers of what is known as the machine.

The campaign that these leaders and managers have made against their nominee was quite as hostile as that which the democrats may be expected to make against him as the representative of republican thirst for morality and reform, and in this preliminary campaign charges have been made and proofs have been offered that even the heartiest republican dove of crow cannot conceal by swallowing again, though his gullet be as big as a barn-door. As has been the case in at least three republican conventions, all the efforts of these leaders have been directed against the man who is now their nominee. All the resources of their ingenuity have been taxed to bring about his defeat. They have advertised him far and wide as a thief, a bribe-taker and a corruptor, and the pens of the picture-makers have been employed to represent him as the one prominent candidate whose record is a disgrace to the republican party and a stench in the nostrils of all honest men.

These have been the facts of that element of the republican party which prides itself on its respectability. It is an element which has for its mouthpieces The Nation, Harper's Weekly, the New York Times, the New York Evening Post, the Boston Herald, the Springfield Republican, and various other journals of more or less note. The campaign has been a bitter one and has progressed in bitterness as the day for the assembling of the convention drew near. But it has culminated in the nomination of Mr. Blaine, and the result is to make that the machine managers are surprised and mortified at the result. They thought to put him down, not alone by virtue of the charges which they have preferred against him, but also by means of the same tactics that have heretofore been employed in cutting off aspiring candidates in their bloom.

MR. WATTERSON asks Editor Dana what course the whisky ring, of Mr. Watterson is such an unsupporting party that it seems to look upon the whisky ring as a poem, or something of that kind.

FOR the ordinary sinner there will soon be no place of refuge. It is announced that the general of the salvation army, a queer body of religiousists, well known in England and America, proposes to organize a mounted corps.

The corps will consist of men and women, the called on to face. The ink is scarcely dry which has advertised Mr. Blaine to the American people as an unblushing corruptor, and, if there is to be even a pretence of republican harmony, the type which yesterday declared that Mr. Blaine is an unscrupulous bribe-taker will be employed to-morrow to convince the country that his political record is as pure as the unbroken snow and that he is one of the most virtuous of men.

Undoubtedly there will be a pretence of harmony, but it will be impossible for the republicans to hide or cover up the predicament in which Mr. Blaine's nomination places them. In our judgment it is just such a predicament as marks the decay of republicanism, and which takes advantage of, will lead to a democratic victory. The country is ripe for genuine reform.

A FARSEEING FARMER.

The letter from our Waynesboro correspondent, published in THE CONSTITUTION of yesterday, doubtless interested every reader.

It seems that Major W. A. Wilkins, a well known and enterprising capitalist of Waynesboro, has gone to work with a will, and in the right way to show what can be done on a model Georgia farm. Recognizing the fact that the best live stock is the most profitable investment for the farmer, Major Wilkins is stocking his farm with Jersey cows of the pure registered class, blooded horses from the blue grass region of Kentucky, and blooded hogs, sheep and fowls. Since the best minds of the south have been directed to the problem of successful farming there has been a development in several states, and notably in Georgia, to make a determined effort for the improvement of our live stock. It goes without saying that just as soon as we succeed in raising first-class live stock, and plenty of it at home, most of the difficulties in the way of profitable farming will vanish. There is no earthly reason why the blooded horses, cows, sheep, hogs and fowls of Georgia should not be equal to any to be found in other sections of the country, and a few resolute and judicious efforts in the line of Major Wilkins' experiment will demonstrate the fact to the satisfaction of everybody.

It would be well for our people to recollect that the material progress of a state does not consist merely in building railroads, towns and cities. Back of all these there must be a prosperous and progressive country, and in order to have it our enterprising farmers will find it necessary to fall into line with Major Wilkins and travel the same road. When we make this a fine stock-raising section our people will be independent, comfortable and on the road to wealth.

OUR electric girls are very small potatoes by the side of a newly discovered New Orleans phenomenon. This phenomenon is a boy, and if the newspapers tell the truth he is certainly the most remarkable urchin in the world. The peculiarity about this boy is his tendency to catch on fire and break out into a blaze at any moment without the slightest warning. The conflagration is so uncertain and occurs so often that he has to be constantly watched, and as a matter of economy he is not permitted to wear any clothing at all. What is the use of putting clothing on a boy who is liable to break out into a blaze every minute in the day. That this wonderful lad exists we have no doubt whatever. The confabulation is so ingenious, and to suggest practical remedies for the safety of this young creature is a task which would tax the ingenuity of a dozen inventors.

Ir John Sherman isn't no minnow, this fellow, he will have ample time to erect a nice sleek monument to the memory of his Miss Liza Pinkston.

A FEW weeks ago the independent leaders declared that if Blaine was nominated they would flock together and nominate a candidate of their own.

THE republican platform cries out lustily for reforms that the g. o. p. has had an opportunity of putting in operation any day these twenty years. Hooray for riform.

THERE is no happier man than John Logan. He will make the welkin rise up and ring when he starts out on his campaign.

Ir is said that Tecumseh Sherman would be the happiest republican in the country if St. Louis had no water plugs.

IT is to be feared that Mr. G. William Curtis did not split his lavender kids by applauding for Mr. Blaine.

THE most remarkable phase of modern politics is the fact that every time Mr. Tilden's session is mentioned, the gifted editor of the Louisville, Kentucky, Courier-Journal rushes off to see what the old man is up to.

Speaking of toads and beetles and such useful subjects, what do you think of walking matches, old man?" chipped in the sporting reporter.

"Well, I ain't got much stuck yet on de ole hecksors son o' walkin' matches you young men's is habbin' round town, but walkin' matches is mighty favorite wid me ef dey is only de right kind ones. An' I've pow'ful sorry, I don't see kin' folks enterin' inter de day I dose daze done."

"Well, what kind of matches do you bet on?"

"Firstly, I like to see men what is all tryin' come down on the little fellow from 'mongst the rebels come off, but if he rubs his hands or toses his pants thus treated burst into a blue flame and burn until the fire is extinguished.

If the clothes��d draw well in our large cities, the boy would draw well in our little cities. Perhaps he would draw well in our large cities.

IT is now in order for the republican reformers and independents to look behind the door and discover what a wise man Mr. Blaine is.

MR. BLAINE is the biggest dish of crow the republican independents ever tackled. But he's mighty fat.

ME. CONKLING and his New York followers are now expected to take Mr. Blaine to their bosoms. In our mind's eye we already see them performing this sweet feat.

THE way to build up the navy and make it respectable is to put honest men in charge of the government; and the way to put honest men in charge of the government is to defeat the republican party in the polls this year.

THE first strike for democratic harmony is made by the caring editor of the Louisville, Kentucky, Courier-Journal. He says that the general of the salvation army, a queer body of religiousists, well known in England and America, proposes to organize a mounted corps.

BLAINE AND LOGAN.

The Press and the People on the Planned Knight and Black Jack.

The Times and the News of Savannah consider that it will be no easy matter to defeat Blaine, and counsel vigilance and wisdom on the part of the democrats.

From the Macon Telegraph, den.

The death of Arthur carries with it the final overthrow of Mahone and secures beyond question the vote of Virginia. This is the last—the disaster to Mahone—it is a matter of no little consequence since it destroys the last stronghold of the democrats in the south.

With a proper organization for the democrats, there is no reason why they should not be successful, unless the Morrison horizontal knife has cut them off from the ballot. It is difficult to believe in no probable event with their troops a walk-over. On the contrary, the contest will be decided and decided well, but we trust, be free from any personal animosity. The democrats have the argument on their side, and can win easily to rely upon the compact of truth and reason.

The ardent friends of the knight "black knight's nomination will be a center shot; but it will go wide of the mark. The democrats could ask for no better ticket for election than will give abundant reason for it. The democrats will be the knight's plumed supporters to November.

From the Atlanta Constitution, den.

To say that we have no feeling of disappointment in Mr. Arthur's failure to secure the nomination would be untrue; but putting aside all personal feelings, it is evident that the ticket presented by us for the chosen representatives of the national republican party, and standing upon the principles adopted by the Chicago convention of principals, will be the best ticket for the election.

From the Atlanta Constitution, den.

If the democrats, reunited and presenting unscrupulous candidates, cannot beat Mr. Blaine, they could not defeat any one of the conspicuous persons who are to be elected. We are common men and make a mistake, and that due advantage of it will be taken at the next Chicago convention. We will have trouble enough to elect our men over the democrats at Chicago, and that fact may as well be stated and relied upon at once. The sooner we combine our forces and project to meet the organized corruption of the country the better it will be for all of us.

From the Chattooga Times, den.

We are anxious to anticipate the outcome of Blaine's candidacy; though we may state that he will make the canvas "red-hot," will run, we are not yet certain of Longfellow's use to him in the event of his nomination. He is arriving for their favorite states of Oregon, California, Nevada, Colorado, Connecticut, Indiana, New York, New Jersey, and some others—and reservations—the others "safe." With these doubtful and the other "fair" certainties, this election will be secured without New York. We are of opinion that, as sentiment now stands disposed, the claim of the four Pacific states for Blaine is fairly well established, and that he will sweep the slopes. We are equally certain that with reasonably wise democratic management, he can be elected in New York, New Jersey, and that he will roll very low in both New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

From the Columbus Times, den.

So, after all, we are to view him as a new star while he endures. Mr. Blaine's extraordinary abilities and great popularity, we cannot see one fact in his nomination to discourage the democrats from a co-operation with the party, and hurl their forces in November next against the strongest of the "powers."

From the Rome Courier, den.

Of all the men put in nomination we preferred that the choice should fall on Blaine, not because we are in favor of his election, but because that would be the easiest man to beat (on the contrary we apprehend that his election is by no means impossible); but because we really regard him as the best republican for the place—a man of intellect and courage, with a positive and decided mind, and a clear vision. We believe that he is not so vindictive towards our section as his rivals for the nomination, and that he will be more lenient in his policy against him will convince him that the character of that vote is not such as to make it especially an object of the government's solicitude to the prejudice of other people.

NEW HOLLAND SPRINGS.

A GEORGIA RESORT MADE INTO A BLOOMING PARADISE.

The New Improvements—Frosted Parlor—The Glories of the Woods and Groves—Among the Ferns and Daisies—The New Cottage—Big Crowd Expected This Summer.

NEW HOLLAND SPRINGS, Ga., June 7.—[Special.]—Just about this time of the season every year, people everywhere begin to ask themselves "where shall I go for the summer?" I don't propose to interrogate myself on this point, for it is a question that has already answered itself. I have been spending a few days at this most charming of resorts, and find it comfortable, cool and delightful. Those who were here last season and the year before the year before would not recognize the place. I can imagine nothing more pleasant in store for the weary-worn denizens of the crowded city than a jaunt up here for a few days, or for a few weeks, during the long and lonely days of summer.

The old idea of camping out, however, is still good.

AN MANNER OF SIN AND BLASPHEMY SHALL BE FORGIVEN UNTO MEN, BUT THE BLASPHEMY AGAINST THE HOLY GHOST SHALL NOT BE FORGIVEN UNTO MEN.

BROOKLYN, JUNE 1.—[Special]—Dr. Talmage preached this morning in the Brooklyn Tabernacle on the subject, "Is it possible for us to commit the unpardonable sin now?" He chose two texts. The first was from Matthew xii. 31 and 32: "All manner of sin and blasphemous shall be forgiven unto men; but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men. And whosoever speaketh a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him; but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come." The second text was from Hebrews xiii. 17: "He found no place to repentance though he sought it carefully with tears."

Let it be understood at the outset, said Dr. Talmage, that the Protestant pulpit has no revelation given to it by the Protestant people. The minister of Christ has no right to lord it over the consciences of men. When we preach we do not utter edicts; we only offer opinions. In this land and in this age where the Bible is almost every hand and in almost every house, let every man understand that he has a right equally with others, to interpret the word of God for himself, asking only divine illumination. As sometimes you gather the whole family around in the evening to hear some interesting book read, so to day we gather a great Christian family group to study this text; and now may one and the same lamp cast its glow on all this vast circle of immortal souls.

You see from the first passage that I read that there is a sin against the Holy Ghost for which a man is never pardoned. One having committed it, is bound hand and foot for the dungeons of despair. Sermons may be preached to him to bring him back to his senses, but they will not affect him; but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost is the sin against the spirit of the devil in the time of the apostles. Indeed the Devil distinctly tells us that. In other words it a man had sight given to him, or if another had it taken away from him, he would still have it. Very well; better late than never. But alas, alas, that you did not do it twenty-five years ago. When I was in Chamonix, Switzerland, I saw in the window of one of the shops a picture that impressed me very much. It was a picture of an ascetic who had just married and come from a Swiss mountain. A company of travellers with some guides went up some very steep places—places which but few travellers attempted to go up. They were, as all travellers are, all fastened together with cords so as to assist so that if one stepped off, the others would hold him, the rope fastened to the others. Passing along the most dangerous point one of the guides slipped, and all them slipped down the precipice; but after awhile one more muscular than the rest struck his heels into the ice and held on. He was the last to fall, hundreds of thousands of feet the rest went. And so I see while families bound together by ties of affection, and in many cases walking on slippery places of worldliness and sin. The father knows it and the mother knows it, and they are bound all together. After awhile they begin to shake and stagger, and the father, the father becomes lame, and his steps planting his feet on the "Rock of Ages." He stops but the rope breaks, and those who were held fast to him by moral and spiritual influences once, go over the precipice. Oh, there is a time when a man wears his sins like an Eternal God and by the name of Jesus Christ but you never heard a man swear by the name of the Holy Ghost. There are those in this house who have committed that sin? All sins are against the Holy Ghost, but my mark for them is that man raised from the dead was raised by satanic influence, the man who said that dropped down under the curse of the text, and his coming back to life again through many sayings, but not soon enough to save others. How many parents wake up in the latter part of life to find out the mistake! The parent says: "I have been too lenient, or I have been too severe in the discipline of my children." I have myself often said to myself that the sin against the Holy Ghost is the sin against the spirit of the Devil.

Now I do think that there should be a day to commit that sin. I think it was possible only in apostle times. But it is a very terrible thing ever to say anything against the Holy Ghost and it is a marked fact that our race have been continually kept from the truth. You can't say man wears his sins like an Eternal God and by the name of Jesus Christ but you never heard a man swear by the name of the Holy Ghost. There are those in this house who have committed that sin? All sins are against the Holy Ghost, but my mark for them is that man raised from the dead was raised by satanic influence, the man who said that dropped down under the curse of the text, and his coming back to life again through many sayings, but not soon enough to save others. I have myself often said to myself that the sin against the Holy Ghost is the sin against the spirit of the Devil.

In this category of irrecoverable mistakes I place also the unkindness done to the departed. When I was a boy my mother used to say to me when I was ill: "Don't you feel bad? You are ill, but you are not alone." I have often said to myself that sin because of the very anxiety in the result of a movement of the gracious spirit, and your anxiety is proof positive, as certainly as anything that can be demonstrated in mathematics that you have not committed the sin that I have been speaking of. I can tell you that I have seen parents, those who are 25 or 30 or 35 years of age, have the family altar now. How can you suppose that either all the members of the family or the wife herself, and the young son said to him: "Father, you have been very good to me. You have given me a fine education and you have placed me in a fine social position; you have done everything for me in a worldly sense, but I am still a sinner." And the father, the father becomes lame, and his steps planting his feet on the "Rock of Ages."

SOCIAL GOSSIP.

THE FEATURES OF THE WEEK CHRONICLED.

Entertaining Our Company—The Movements of Our People Abroad—Marriage and Divorce in Marriage—Topics of Interest to Our Lady Readers—Theatrical Matters, Etc.

The past week has certainly been a quiet one for society people. In the city, the commencement exercises of Mrs. Ballard's school, held in very pleasant and satisfactorily several of the days and evenings of the week. On Tuesday night there was a picnic at Ponce de Leon pavilion. This charming affair was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer, Mr. and Mrs. Alder, Mr. and Mrs. Bostwick, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Kutz, Mr. and Mrs. Kurtz and Mr. and Mrs. Auerbach. With the large number of young people present, the sweet music of Cohen's band, graceful dancing and elegant refreshments, several hours of enjoyment were indulged in. A highly pleasant musical entertainment at West End Wednesday night for the benefit of the West End Methodist church. During the week there were one or two weddings. Operetta, "Revelation of the Daisies," at the opera house, college fair, social reunion of Central Presbyterian church and library picnic to Macon.

Matrimonial Garlands.

Married 8:30 p.m., June 4th at the residence of the bride, 329 Larkin street, Atlanta. Colonel F. Hobbs to Miss Julia E. Booth. Colonel Hobbs is a son of the late Dr. L. P. Hobbs of South Carolina. He is a son of the late Dr. L. P. Hobbs of that state. Miss Booth is the daughter of Mr. R. Booth, of Atlanta. No wedding service, select company of relatives, and friends present. Rev. G. T. Gibson officiated. And the friends will spend a part of June and July in Atlanta.

As the summer advances there is less and less in the city to interest fashionables, and those who go make up society are beginning to scatter off to the country.

Commencement exercises of the Griffin female college will take place fifth inst. The baccalaureate address will be delivered by Rev. G. B. Strickler, D. D.

Miss Tutti Coleman, a charming young lady of Linneburg, Ala., returned home Sunday, after spending several weeks with relatives in Tadlock.
